EDITOR'S NOTE

New Pokémon Adventures to Explore

The newest theatrical Pokémon adventure is finally here! Ash and the gang meet new trainers, make new friends and discover many rare and powerful Pokémon in Pokémon 3: The Movie. The movie, with a subtitle of Spell of the Unown, introduces us to two very interesting Pokémon: Entei #244 and Unown #201. Without giving away too much of the movie, Unown could very well be the most powerful Pokémon of all. You'll have to see the movie to find out if its true. But, if you can't wait, inside this issue we'll give you some clues about the movie's storyline. Turn to page 8 for the scoop.

Pikachu is probably the most famous of all 251 Pokémon. He's the one character that most people on Earth and in the Pokémon World can identify. If you're a collector of Pikachu cards, we have a real treat in store for you. This month we pay a tribute to Pikachu with a Pikachu card gallery. We've compiled a complete Pikachu card checklist along with photos of his most popular cards. For a glimpse of these Pika-cards flip to page 12.

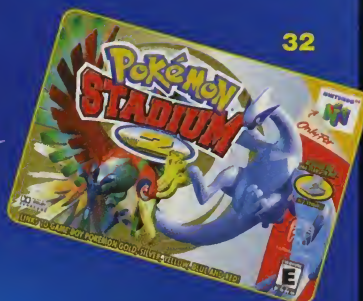

For all you crazed Pokémon fans who have not gotten the chance to see or play the new Pokémon Stadium 2 game from Nintendo, we've included a preview in this issue. If you own a Nintendo 64 system, and you're dying to own one of these hot new games, hold onto your feet. We're giving away Pokémon Stadium 2 video games to three lucky winners. You could be one of them. Turn to page 20 for the details.

If you're more of a Game Boy fanatic, we've got something for you too. It's a special edition Pokémon Gold/Silver Game Boy system. The color of this game is actually iridescent. Tilt this system in the light and it can change into the colors of the rainbow. Isn't that incredible? For a chance to win one of these babies jump immediately to page 40.

And, if you enjoy surfing the Internet in search of Pokémon info, we've got that too. Check out our new Web site at www.beckettpokemon.com. We post late-breaking Pokémon news and much more every week. Send us some comments about our site and have fun! ★

POKÉMON
THE MOVIE 3

BY STEVE FRITZ

WB RELEASES THIRD POKÉMON MOVIE

THIS SPRING
THE UNKNOWN SPELLS ADVENTURE

POKÉMON THE MOVIE 3

SPELL OF THE UNOWN

Ash Ketchum faces a dilemma like none he's ever faced before when the third full-length Pokémon feature movie, subtitled Spell of the Unown hits theaters this month.

Everything seems to be going good for Ash at the beginning of the movie. Ash has just left his beloved Charizard in Charific Valley but he, Misty and Brock have made a new friend in the form of another trainer named Lisa. After a quick competition to see who's the better trainer, the foursome decide they'll go on to the Johto competitions together. Along the way whom do they meet up with but none other than Professor Oak and Ash's mother Delia.

ASH AND GANG MEET ENTEI AND UNOWN

Things go horribly wrong for Ash and his growing group of companions when a gigantic, mysterious creature called Entei appears out of the blue and kidnaps Delia. The monster sweeps the defenseless woman to a mysterious castle guarded by crystal barriers that reach up to the heavens.

The castle is the home of the enigmatic Unown, 26 different Pokémon who resemble what Meowth calls "alphabet soup ... without the soup." It seems a colleague of Professor Oak's, one Professor Hale, had spent his life studying the Unown. The creatures struck back though, making Hale and his wife disappear, leaving their daughter an orphan. Sometimes called symbol Pokémon, the Unown can read people's thoughts and create incredible worlds out of human fantasies and images. The thing is they are Pokémon, not humans, and don't necessarily understand everything people want.

This makes them exceedingly dangerous. After all, it's not always a good thing to get everything you ever wished for.

ASH HAS TO MAKE BIG DECISIONS

Now Ash faces the greatest crisis in his life. Should he abandon his chance to compete in the Johto Competition to save his mother? Like there is any doubt about that question. Still, it's not enough that Ash must go up against the horrifying Entei to save his mother. There's still the Unown, and for this Ash will not only end up having to rely on all his current friends, but he must also call upon a number of Pokémon from his past if he stands even the slightest chance to defeat them.

"Ash makes the decision to go into this dangerous area where nobody seems to be able to break through to figure out what's happened to his mother and try to rescue her," says Pokémon's master producer Norman Grossfeld. "This he does despite his fear. It's a big thing for a kid to take upon himself. I think what makes Pokémon special and makes Ash special is that he is definitely not a superhero. He doesn't have super-powers and doesn't necessarily do incredible things, but he usually does the right thing and the thoughtful thing. He's pure of heart."

Is being pure of heart and having wonderful friends like Team Rocket fighting on your side enough to defeat the Unown?

ENTEI WILL BE THE PROMO CARD GIVEN AWAY AT POKÉMON 3: THE MOVIE

Pokémon 3: the Movie premieres this month. Be sure to get your tickets as soon as they're available. With every ticket purchase you'll receive the next Pokémon TCG movie promo card, Entei, while supplies last! Not only will the Entei promo be a very collectible reverse-holographic black-star promo card, its Pokémon Power and attack could make it a great addition to your Fire Pokémon TCG deck as well.

Here's a "spoiler" for the card (in case you have trouble reading all the fine print!):

- * Name: Entei
- * Type: Fire
- * HP: 80
- * Card: Black Star Promo #34
- * Weakness: Water
- * Resistance: None
- * Retreat Cost: 1
- * Pokémon #: 244

* Attack: Protective Flame 50 damage. During your opponent's next turn, prevent all effects of attacks, including damage, done to your Benched Pokémon.

PICHU MAKES HIS DEBUT

But Spell of the Unown isn't the only attraction that comes to the theatre under the overall title of Pokémon 3: The Movie. Also on the bill is another Pikachu animated short called Pikachu and Pichu, which pits everyone's #1 Pokémon up against and with the mischievous Pichu brothers.

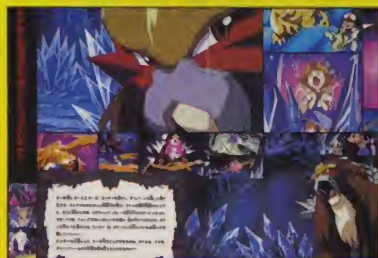

The Pichu, who are being introduced in this short, are the smaller "cousins" of the Pikachu and less evolved. This doesn't mean they also can't come through with a thunderous electrical attack if they feel like it. The good news is a Pichu's attack isn't as powerful as a Pikachu's. The bad news is a Pichu has less ability to control its lightning attacks and can shoot off at the worst times. And, when these rascally Pichu brothers shoot off, our favorite Pikachu is going to have to call on the help of Hoppip, Houndour and even a Markow to help him.

Like the past Pokémon projects, it's a joint production of Warner Bros. Of America, 4-Kids Entertainment and Nintendo. The American version of the movie was produced by Norman Grossfeld. Grossfeld adapted the Japanese version of the script with Michael Haigney, who also directed the American version. The original Japanese anime was directed by Kunihiro Yuyama, based on the original story by Pokémon creator Satoshi Tajiri.

For more information, you can check the official website www.Pokémon.com. ✨

JAPANESE MOVIE RELEASE

The third Pokémon movie, originally released in Japan, went under the title of Lord of the Unknown Tower. Moviegoers who attended this movie in Japan were treated to a special Pokémon Movie program. Here's some images featured in the program.

Let The Battles Begin

By Jason R. Rich

Pokémon Stadium 2 brings more monsters and more fun to Nintendo 64.

In Pokémon Gold and Silver, gamers experienced an exciting adventure as they explored The World of Pokémon. They searched, caught and then trained all sorts of exotic Pokémon and added information about them to the PokéDex.

As a Pokémon Master, now that you've collected a handful of your favorite Pokémon and have trained them to perform at peak efficiency in battle, they're ready for the ultimate challenge - to participate in battles in the Pokémon Stadium 2 game on the Nintendo 64.

NEW POKÉMON AND NEW BATTLES
Pokémon Stadium 2 will allow you to battle with 249 different types of Pokémon from the Game Boy (Color) versions of Pokémon Gold, Silver, Red, Blue and Yellow.

Best of all, you'll be able to see all of the action and the Pokémon themselves in full-color and in 3-D on your N64's screen.

Each type of Pokémon is capable of performing all of their specialized moves that you taught them on the Game Boy.

Just like in the original Pokémon Stadium game (N64), this game pak works with the special Transfer Pak adapter (sold separately). This accessory allows you to easily plug your Pokémon Game Boy carts into the N64 and exchange game-related data about your Pokémon characters between the Game Boy and N64. This means that the exact Pokémon you caught, raised and trained on the Game Boy can participate in Pokémon Pokémon from the Pokémon Gold or Silver game carts.

Of course, if you don't have a Game Boy, Pokémon Stadium 2 has the Pokémon characters built-in, so you can train 'em on your N64 as they participate in battles. This game offers four different tournament modes and over a dozen mini games.

Pokémon Stadium 2 also features a complete PokéDex, plus special on-screen quizzes designed to stump even the most knowledgeable Pokémon Masters.

LEARN HOW TO BATTLE LIKE A PRO
For those who dare to call themselves Pokémon Masters, this game allows trainers to teach their favorite Pokémon a handful of all-new Technical Machines (TMs), which can give the Pokémon themselves unique new powers and capabilities that only work on the N64. These TMs allow the Pokémon to perform even better in battle.

If you haven't yet earned the title Pokémon Master, no problem!

Stadium 2 battles. When playing Pokémon Stadium 2, you can also receive special Mystery Gifts for your

When playing Pokémon Stadium 2, you can spend time hanging out at the Pokémon Academy. Here, you'll learn how to participate in battles and receive training tips from pros like Professor Oak and Professor Elm. You'll also be able to learn about the stats, strengths, weaknesses, moves and capabilities of the 249 types of Pokémon featured in the game.

PLAY AGAINST HUMANS OR COMPUTER-GENERATED TRAINERS

Once you've learned at least some basic fighting techniques, you can check out the game's Free Battle Mode and compete in flashy Pokémon battles with up to four other players. For each battle, you can use standard battle rules set by the Pokémon League or make up your own tournament rules and regulations. If no other human Pokémon Masters are available, the Pokémon gym. Each of these trainers specializes in fighting with specific types of Pokémon, so learning to beat each of them will take time, practice and plenty of skill.

SPECIAL TOURNAMENTS

As your Pokémon training skills improve, you can participate in special tournaments designed for Pokémon at different skill levels. The Little Cup, for example, is for young Pokémon who haven't yet reached high levels.

The Nintendo Cup, however, is only open to individual Pokémon who are ranked between level 50 and 55. The Ultra Cup is open to all Pokémon, so a level 5 Scyther, for example, can compete against

Stadium 2 game features 21 computer-generated trainers you can compete against in a special

a level 75 Pikachu. With the exception of the Little Cup, each tournament mode built into Pokémon Stadium 2 contains four sub-tournaments with eight battles each. That's a total of 32 exciting battles you'll need to help your Pokémon win in order to be victorious. Part of being successful in a tournament is hand-picking your team of Pokémon so they'll be able to overcome any challenge a competitor throws at you.

There's a lot more to Pokémon Stadium

2 than just tournaments and battles. The twelve all-new mini games offer simple arcade-like games that are fun, challenging and addictive. While there's no adventurous storyline that unfolds as you experience Pokémon

Stadium 2, this game offers non-stop Pokémon battle action. Like any good game, this one is easy to learn, especially if you've already played Pokémon Gold or Silver on the Game Boy. Mastering this game, however, will take skill, plus the time necessary to raise and train a team of Pokémon capable of squashing any challenger.

POKÉMON GOLD AND SILVER FANS

From a game play standpoint, Pokémon Stadium 2 is very much like the original Pokémon Stadium game, but offers a handful of enhancements and new features designed to make the battles more fun and challenging. How you participate in turn-based battles works very much like the battles in Pokémon Gold and Silver.

For fans of Pokémon Gold and Silver, Pokémon Stadium 2 is an awesome way to expand upon the game play experience offered in these Game Boy Color games. Because you can easily take the Pokémon characters you've worked so hard to train on the Game Boy, and place them into an action-oriented battle environment with flashy color graphics and eye-catching animations, the interaction with your favorite Pokémon becomes much more exciting. The graphics you'll see in Pokémon Stadium 2 are obviously far better than anything you'd see on the Game Boy Color's screen.

So, if you're a Pokémon maniac who loves Pokémon Gold and Silver, be sure to check out what Pokémon Stadium 2 offers!

Jason R. Rich is the author of Pokémon Gold: Pathways to Adventure ($9.95, Sybex), an exciting, full-color novel based on the hit video game. ★

The Big Basic Bruisers of Neo Genesis

By Steven Diamond

When a new Pokémon TCG expansion hits the street, one of the first things veteran players look for are its “Big Basic Pokémon,” or BBPs for short. BBPs are Basic Pokémon with lots of HP and solid attacks. The Pokémon BBP “Hall of Fame” includes all-time monster cards like Hitmonchan, Scyther, Magmar (Fossil), Rocket Zapdos, Mewtwo (movie promo) and Articuno. Each of these pocket monster heroes boasts 70 HP and carries one or two big-time attacks. They’re kind of like the neighborhood bullies of the Pokémon world.

Neo’s BBP’s

So what BBP’s did Neo Genesis bring us? For starters, Lugia, the hero of Pokémon: The Movie 2000, arrives as a 90 HP “Diving Pokémon.” One of the most beautiful holofoil cards, Lugia has a single attack: “Elemental Blast” for 90 damage. Looks good at first glance, but you need three Energies - 1 Fire, 1 Lightning and 1 Water - to power up this attack. Then, to top it off, after doing the attack you must discard those Energies! Since few people play three-color decks, Lugia probably won’t see much play. But as a collectible BBP card, Lugia leads the Neo pack.

Three other 70 HP monsters arrived in Neo Genesis packs: Electabuzz (level 38), Magmar (level 37), and Miltank. The old Base set Electabuzz offers a “Thundershock” attack of 10 damage and possible paralysis for a single Lightning Energy - making it a dependable opening Pokémon in many decks. The new ‘Buzz offers a decent “Punch” attack for 20 damage with 2 Energies of any color, and an irresistible “Swift” attack of 30 damage that overcomes resistance, Pokémon Powers or any other effects on the Defending Pokémon. This makes the Electric Pokémon a sure-fire knock out against Mr. Mime (but not against the special defense of those annoying new Baby Pokémon - you still have to flip a coin to attack!).

Like the new Electabuzz, Neo Magmar offers a first attack worth 20 damage for two Colorless Energies. Even better, its “Magma Punch” of 40 damage is devastating against Grass Pokémon like Scyther who are weak to Fire attacks. While not quite as attractive as Fossil Magmar (with its Smokescreen attack that only requires one Fire Energy), Neo's Spitfire Pokémon can Fire up your deck.

Least effective among Neo BBPs is Miltank, a bovine beast that simply requires too much Energy (3 Colorless) to do too little damage (20) with a possibility of paralyzing the Defending Pokémon. I'm afraid there's not much meat on Neo's "Milk Cow" monster.

A Smorgasbord of Smaller BBP's

In addition to Neo's 70 HP monsters we find some pretty decent 60 HP Pokémon that I'll call "Pretty Big" Basic Pokémon (PBBP's for short!). In fact, a few are better attackers than their bigger 70 HP friends. Sneasel is the best of the bunch (see the "Trainer's Guide to TCG" article elsewhere in this issue for a deck that focuses on this devilishly damaging Dark Pokémon). Other nifty Neo's include Gligar, Girafig, Skarmory, and Heracross, each with 60 HP.

Gligar leads Neo's Fighting types as a great opening Pokémon: attaching only one Fighting Energy enables the Flyscorpio Pokémon to do its "Poison Sting" attack for 10 damage plus the possibility of poisoning the Defending Pokémon with a coin flip of heads. A "Slash" attack for 20 damage that takes just two Colorless Energies is also very effective, allowing Gligar to be added to any deck running Double Colorless Energies as a quick Fighting attacker.

Girafig avoids one common drawback of Psychic Pokémon - it's not weak to Psychic attacks. This Long Neck Pokémon's "Agility" attack combines offense with defense, doing 10 damage with the possibility of avoiding all damage and effects with a coin toss of heads. Since "Agility" is also powered by 2 Colorless Energies, it helps Girafig fit into multi-colored decks. And its "Psybeam" attack does a solid 20 damage plus the possibility of confusing the Defending Pokémon, always a good trick.

You might think of Skarmory - the only Basic Metal Pokémon of the set - as a "70 HP" BBP in disguise, just awaiting a Metal Energy to boost its HP by 10. Remember that a Metal Energy attached to a Pokémon reduces any attack on that Pokémon by 10 damage. If you attach a Metal Energy to a Metal Pokémon you do not suffer any penalties - but if you attach a Metal Energy to a non-Metal Pokémon, that Pokémon's own attacks are reduced by 10 damage! Skarmory's resistance to Grass types makes it immune to Scyther's "Slash" attack, and its "Steel Wing" combines offense with defense, doing 20 damage plus the possibility of reducing by 20 any damage done to Skarmory on your opponent's next turn. On the down side, Skarmory's "Claw" attack requires a coin toss of heads to effect any damage at all (bad), and its high retreat cost of 2 Energies weigh down the Armor Bird (even worse).

Representing the green side of your Pokedex, Heracross is a Grass Basic with the potential for big time damage. Its sole attack "Megahorn" does a whopping 60 damage but only if you do a coin toss and get heads. If tails, the attack does nothing. The possibility for big-time damage comes with its Pokémon Power, "Final Blow," which says: If Heracross's remaining HP are 20 or less, you may make its Megahorn attack's base damage 120 instead of 60." This Single Horn Pokémon might be tempting in a deck with Neo Genesis' Ledian, whose "Baton Pass" attack requires you to transfer all its Grass Energies to a Grass Pokémon on your Bench and switch places with it - a quick way to power up your Bench-warming Heracross' Megahorn attack. ✨

The Power of Dark Pokémon

By Steven Diamond

The new Dark Pokémon of Neo: Genesis, Sneasel, and the Dark Energies it uses are great additions to Pokémon TCG. Darkness Energy opens up a new line of strategy for serious players. When attached to Dark Pokémon, each Darkness Energy adds 10 damage to any successful attack. Darkness Energies are similar to PlusPower Trainers, except that like the Energizer Bunny, those Darkness Energy cards keep on going, and going, and going, adding 10 damage to every attack!

Looking at the tasty new Darkness Energy and the Dark Pokémon they energize, our challenge is to find a way to build a deck around them. Here's an example of one deck that tries to use and abuse the "dark side" of these Neo cards-Dark Deeds. It combines some great Neo cards with some older favorites from earlier expansions.

Dark Deed's Pokémon

I've tried to make the most use of the "dark" theme in this deck by including 8 Pokémon - Sneasel, Dark Golbat, and Dark Hypno - that can use Darkness Energy to add damage to their attacks without suffering any penalties. (Remember: if you attach a Darkness Energy to a non-Dark Pokémon, you must place a damage counter on that Pokémon after every turn).

Sneasel is the "wrecking machine" of this deck. With 2 Darkness Energies attached to Sneasel you can use its "Beat Up" attack: "Flip a coin for each of your Pokémon in play (including this one). This attack does 20 damage times the number of heads." When you have a full Bench (5 Pokémon) you get to flip 6 coins (don't forget to count your Sneasel). If you get three heads (and three tails), Sneasel's base attack is worth 60 damage - and then add another 20 damage (10 damage for each Darkness Energy attached) for a total of 80 damage! The more heads you get, the higher the damage. Inflicting a possible 140 damage in one turn with just 2 Energies attached is mighty attractive.

Team Rocket Zubats are useful for three reasons: with only one Energy of any color they can "Ram" for 10 damage (or 20 damage with a Darkness Energy attached), they have a zero retreat cost, and they can evolve into Dark Golbat. Although placing a Darkness Energy on a Zubat will cause 10 damage after every turn, if you evolve to Dark Golbat on your next turn the damage stops. You get to use Dark Golbat's "Sneak Attack" Pokémon Power immediately (choose one of your opponent's Pokémon and do 10 damage to it, ignoring Weakness or Resistance). Dark Golbat's own "Flitter" attack is another benefit: for 2 Grass Energy you may choose any of your opponent's Pokémon and do 20 damage (again ignoring Weakness or Resistance).

DARK DEEDS Pokémon (19)

Dark Golbat (TR) x 3

Team Rocket Drowzee is also useful for several reasons, including its Pokémon Power, "Long-Distance Hypnosis." Once during your turn (before your attack) you may flip a coin. If heads, the Defending Pokémon is now Asleep. If tails, your Active Pokémon is now Asleep. While this disruptive power is sometimes useful, I really include Drowzee for its ability to evolve into Dark Hypno. The evolved Hypnosis Pokémon can do a "Psypunch" attack for 20 damage with just one Psychic Energy attached, and since it is a Dark Pokémon you can add a Darkness Energy to it for additional damage on your attacks. Its "Bench Manipulation" attack requires 2 Psychic Energy and one of any color (try to make it Darkness, of course!): "Your opponent flips a number of coins equal to the number of Pokémon on his or her Bench. This attack does 20 damage times the number of tails. Don't apply Weakness or Resistance for this attack." Not only does the Darkness Energy add 10 damage, "Bench Manipulation" also ignores resistance which means Pokémon with resistance to Psychic attacks are fair game!

Ditto and Scyther are included for their flexibility in taking any type Energy. Ditto is great to mimic whatever dangerous Pokémon your opponent promotes, while Scyther combines great attacks with resistance to Fighting attacks and a zero retreat cost. In fact, out of the 19 Pokémon in this deck, notice that 12 of them have a zero retreat cost, making them very mobile and hard targets to hit!

Dark Deed's Trainers

The Trainers in this deck provide drawing power (Computer Search, Item Finder, and Professor Oak), Energy denial (Energy Removal), card manipulation (Energy Flow and Gust of Wind), and Healing (Gold Berry). Energy Flow may be especially helpful to move one of your valuable Darkness Energies from a Pokémon that is about to be knocked out back to your hand. Sprout Tower is included because one of the strongest decks you're likely to face nowadays is a Wigglytuff deck, and Sprout Tower puts a damper on the dreaded "Do the Wave" attack! But if the players in your area seem to rely on other strategies, adjust your Trainers to meet those threats. Stadium cards like "No Removal Gym" or "Ecogym" would also work well to preserve your precious Darkness Energies.

Dark Deed's Energies

Only four Darkness Energies are allowed per deck, so use them well! The three Double Colorless Energies can energize Scyther's Slash attack or any attack Ditto may copy. Grass Energy supplies your Bats, and your Hypnosis Pokémon live on Psychic Energy.

Customize!

Finally, remember that my deck is just a suggestion of what you can do to find a "theme" and build a deck around it. Don't forget some of the other solid Dark Pokémon out there, like Dark Alakazam, Dark Blastoise, and Dark Charizard! And keep an eye out in future Neo expansion sets for the "Team Rocket's Hideout" Stadium card which adds 20 HP to any Dark Pokémon in play (see Jonathan Ng's "Japanese Card Translations for Neo 3" in the March 2001 issue of Beckett Pokémon Collector). The future for Dark Pokémon looks bright indeed! ✨

The Good, The Bad and the Circuitry

UNEARTHING THE DATA OF DRAGON BALL Z CHARACTERS

What would Dragon Ball Z be without its line-up of intense characters? The series' backbone lies within each character's individual personas, not to mention their personal strengths and weaknesses. Each character has a distinct personality, and after watching the show for a while, you'll come to know the character, as you would a close friend... or perhaps an enemy. Which is why, in this section, we will tell you a little bit about each character so you can get to know them even better than you already do.

Piccolo

This solemn, serious and savage Nameckian is a fan favorite. First appearing after the death of his father, Piccolo Daimaou, Piccolo vowed that he would avenge his father's death by killing Goku. But Piccolo is much more than Daimaou's son, he's a semi-reincarnation of him. He retains all of his father's memories and experiences. It is because he still exists, that Kami, his good half, is still able to live.

Piccolo is introduced to the series as a villain, making his grand entrance in the 23rd World Martial Arts Tournament under the entry name, "Ma Junior". The final battle that transpires between Goku and Piccolo is truly one to be remembered! In the end, Goku wins the climactic bout with a headbutt, knocking Piccolo out of the ring, (or what's left of it). Goku shows his adversary mercy and allows him to escape. Piccolo goes off by himself to train to be stronger, in order to kill Goku, but his next meeting with the hero won't go exactly as he plans it....

The next time the duo meet, they join forces, albeit begrudgingly, to eliminate Raditz, Goku's evil brother. After Piccolo succeeds in killing Raditz, he learns of the Saiyans who will reach the Earth in one year's time. Figuring he needs all the help he can get, Piccolo kidnaps Gohan in order to show the child how to release his hidden power. Over the year, Piccolo's heart becomes calmer due to Gohan's friendly influence, and when the time comes, he proves that he has truly reformed himself.

As the series progresses, Piccolo becomes less of a fighter, and more of a leader. When he merges with Kami, he gains a great deal of wisdom, and uses it to his advantage to be tactical, not brutal. In Goku's absence, he serves as a leader, and a uniting force among the Z Soldiers. Late in Dragon Ball GT, he makes the ultimate sacrifice, for the Earth he learned to love.
